GREEN ENERGY

Until the mid-18th Century, wood was the source of nearly all of the nation's energy needs for heating, cooking, and lighting. From the late 1800s until today, fossil fuels—coal, petroleum and natural gas—have been the major sources of energy. Hydropower and wood were the most used energy resources until the 1990s. Lately, there is an awareness on the consumption pattern of energy and then, generation of energy from biofuels; geothermal energy, solar energy and wind energy have increased.

There is a great need to review the generation and usage of green energy solutions at present and in the future for domestic and industrial use. Green energy solutions and contributing technologies can definitely reduce the fossil fuel demand across multiple industries around the globe. It is estimated that by the year 2030, the quantum of energy required around the world for industrial purposes will grow by 20% compared to its current level but with that, the use of reusable and renewable energy technologies can help eat away at these high demands. Renewable green energy solutions provide an opportunity for Industries around the world to make a minimal investment and generate the required energy as well as save the environment and the associated expenses in restoring the damages.

Possible solutions of green energy:

There are different types of green energy solutions that are available at present. The most well-known types of green energy are derived through solar panels and windmills. Depending upon the affordability, one can invest in solar panels where the place is very sunny and bright area to collect the natural resource and convert it into useful energy. In the same way, large agricultural and mountain areas in rural regions where the natural wind is prevalent in all seasons, wind farms can be developed to generate wind energy, which is a sustainable source.

How do we apply these suggestions in our city life and our office locations:

Conservation of energy in our industries and offices will be of a great help to the Indian Economy as the power saved / conserved will be useful in reducing the power generation from high cost & non-renewable resources.

Major Highlights of MGM Group initiatives, feeling proud in joining the Nation's Drive toward Energy Conservation & Green energy

Chapter 18 - The Educational Path Decided for my children

Excerpts

I did not have my education in a scheduled manner for various reasons. But, I very well knew the value of education.

I was also very particular and anxious to provide education to my children to the fullest extent and satisfy my ambition. I wanted them to have all the benefits of education, which I could not have. I wanted my children to have value-based education, and learn all about improved technology and the social environment.

As my sons had to live in this competitive world, I got them trained well, by sending them to foreign countries for technical and academic qualifications. To achieve fluency in English I appointed Anglo-Indian teachers to teach my children at home even when they were very young. I myself taught them all about my experiences and the type of people they would come across when they grow up. This knowledge they did not get in their school and college education.

Our joint effort and coordinated thought is the foundation in the growth of our MGM establishments.

T. Kumar Vital Transport Senior Driver

MGM has been very kind to me, I started here as one of the first group of drivers in the year 2012 with VITAL, and I have no reason to turn back. One of my happiest moments was when I received Professional driver award and a cheque of Rs. 25000 in the year 2017, exactly 5 years after joining at MGM Vital Transport.

It is moments like this that make me feel very happy and also encourages me to work hard. I recall our initial days when the company started with only 5 vehicles and we were only 5 drivers, but now the company has close to 107 vehicles and 100 plus drivers. We are very well looked after by our MD and the Management plays a positive role in our well being and so we have no complaints at all. During long journeys, we are well equipped with travel tools and equipment to make our journey safer. It is MD's advice that during such exhaustive trips, we can rest and continue the journey in daylight, explaining his care and concern for his employees.

I'm extremely thankful and happy to be part of MGM and I will be so in the coming years as well. Thank you
